FORMER LOCAL PHYSICIAN DEAD

Dr. John Riegle, of Emmitsburg, since 1884 a practicing physician of that town, died there at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, from heart trouble aged 57 years. Death was quite sudden, although Dr. Riegle had been in failing health for several months.

He remained in his room Wednesday morning, because he was not feeling well, and no one suspected that his condition was serious. Members of his family had been with him throughout the day, and he had been left alone for a short time. When Mrs. Riegle returned to the room she found him in a dying condition, and death soon followed.

Dr. Riegle was born near Gettysburg and after a course in medicine practiced at Gettysburg for one year and then located in Emmitsburg and remained there. He was held in high esteem in the neighborhood and was active in local affairs. He was a member of the Reformed Church and of the Masonic fraternity.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Edgar Smickle, Waynesboro; Miss Florence Riegle, at home. The following brothers and sisters also survive: Emory Riegle, of York; Harry Riegle, of Bendersville; Miss Eleanor Riegle and Peter Riegle, of Clear Rock.

GEORGE SNYDER

The two brothers were in pursuit of a pheasant and George, complaining of feeling ill, sat down on a stump. When Denton returned in a few minutes he found his brother seriously ill. Denton ran down to Daniel Utz's where he telephoned for his brother, Charles, to come with a team. The ill man was lifted into the vehicle and expired in a few minutes.

He was a great hunter and trapper, was unmarried and is survived by his mother, three sisters and five brothers.

The funeral services were held from his home on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock with interment at the Lower Bermudian church, Rev. Paul Glatfelter officiating.

GEORGE F. WITHERS

George F. Withers died at five o'clock this morning at his home at New Chester aged about 81 years. His death was caused by heart trouble and dropsy.

Mr. Withers leaves his second wife and eight children, Mrs. Elmer Freed, of York; Mrs. Frank Miller and Mrs. Edward Groft, of New Oxford; Mrs. Mummert, of Carlisle; Mrs. Neidick, of Hampton; Willis Withers, of Carlisle; Samuel Withers, of New Chester; George Withers, of Hunterstown.

THE WHITE SISTER

Stock Company Makes Good before Appreciative Audience.

The Mae LaPorte Stock Company in "The White Sister" at Water's Theatre Thursday evening constituted the best attraction ever produced in Gettysburg by a repertoire company. An appreciative and discriminating audience witnessed the production. Specialties were lacking between the acts and they were not missed. It is a pity that a company possessing the ability that Miss LaPorte and her associates displayed Thursday evening, ever descends to the low comedy of cheap vaudeville. To-night's play will be "When Hearts are Young." Friday night's bill will be "The Goose Girl."

LATIMORE

Latimore—Mervin Gardner was home from Harrisburg several days last week.

Miss Florence Johnston has gone to Hershey where she will be employed at a boarding house.

COOPER-MILLER HOME WEDDING

Miss Edna Miller, of Gettysburg, Married Dr. Cooper, of Tyrone, at Pretty Home Wedding in the Presence of Relatives and Friends.

Miss Mary Edna Miller and Dr. Luther Linford Lindale Cooper were married at seven o'clock Thursday evening at the bride's home on Baltimore street by Rev. J. B. Baker in the presence of about fifty guests.

The home was very beautifully decorated in a color scheme of yellow and white, large chrysanthemums being used in profusion in the various rooms. Before the ceremony Miss Josephine Rinedollar, of Taneytown, sang "O Promise Me." The Lohengrin March was played by Miss Helen Gephart, of Lewistown, as the bride and bridegroom entered the parlor unattended.

Miss Miller wore a beautiful gown of bridal satin, trimmed with silk shadow lace and chiffon. It was made with a short train and she wore a short veil. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. After the reception, which followed the wedding, Dr. and Mrs. Cooper motored to Hanover and this morning went from there to Tyrone, their future home. The bride's going away costume was of mahogany Bedford cord with hat of Panne velvet.

Mrs. Cooper is the eldest daughter of Mrs. L. D. Miller, of Baltimore street. She is a graduate of the Gettysburg High School and Irving College and is a graduate nurse of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia. Dr. Cooper is a graduate of Delaware College and of the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania. He recently received the appointment of medical examiner for the Pennsylvania Railroad at Tyrone. Dr. Cooper is a member of the Kappa Alpha (Southern) fraternity.

Included in the guests from out of town were J. W. F. Cooper, of Wyoming, Delaware; Miss Mary Rinedollar and Miss Josephine Rinedollar, of Taneytown; Miss Helen Gephart, of Lewistown.

GETTING CONTROL OF DIPHTHERIA

Many Cases of Diphtheria in McSherrystown and Midway are Cured. Epidemic Seems to be Under Control. Only one Death.

The diphtheria epidemic in a section of Midway and McSherrystown for the past month, causing considerable uneasiness to residents, as well as the medical profession, now seems to be well under control.

Most of the cases have been discharged and the quarantine raised from the homes. There was only one fatality—the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Groft of Midway having died, but several severe cases existed while many were only light touches of the disease.

The quarantine has been raised from many of the homes, where the patients were: Marie and Anna May, daughters of Andrew Kerrigan; Gladys Becker, daughter of Emanuel Becker; Sterling Bair, son of John Bair; Charles Groft, wife and son Alvin; Marguerite Becker, daughter of James Becker; Regina Buntz, daughter of George Buntz, Stella Weaver, daughter of Henry Weaver, and Raymond, son of Norman Walker.

The following new cases have been reported, all of whom are improving: Lillie Goulden, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Goulden, of Slentz's Lane; Curvin Craumer, of South street, Midway; and Hilda, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Martz, of Union township.

The homes were quarantined by Health Officer T. A. Gouker, of Littlestown.

Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon has issued a warning to parents. He says: "Do not fail to act promptly when your children are suffering from simple sore throats. Waiting 'to be sure' it is something serious before calling a physician is responsible for many deaths from diphtheria. Diphtheria anti-toxin is as near an absolute specific as any discovery in medicine, provided it is used at a sufficiently early period after the onset of the malady. Our statistics show every day's delay in securing this treatment increases the mortality."

AUTOMOBILE BURNED

John Kelly, of Waynesboro, manager of the Pure Oil pumping station, near Quincy, suffered the complete loss of his Chalmers automobile Tuesday evening by fire, near Charman.

Mr. Kelly had spent the day in the vicinity of Fairfield, superintending the repair of a break in the pipe line. In the evening he started for home, but his engine stalled near the toll gate along the pike below Charman. He phoned to W. M. Fisher, manager of a Waynesboro garage, to come and tow the machine up the mountain. Mr. Fisher jumped in a car and went to the rescue. Everything went well until the steep grade below the railroad at Charman was reached. At this point the strain upon the tow-rope became too great and the two machines parted company. The machine in which Mr. Kelly was riding ran back down the pike a short distance and then down over a bank and upset.

Mr. Kelly jumped and saved himself. Scarcely had the car turned over when it burst into flames.

Owing to the proximity of the fire to the gasoline tank, it was unsafe to venture close enough to attempt to extinguish it. The rapid progress of the flames soon reached the gasoline and in a very short space the car was a twisted mass of smoldering wreckage.

The destroyed car was a $1500 machine. About $300 insurance was carried on it.

TO HUNT GOOD FOOT BALL MEN

College Authorities will Endeavor to Secure Better Players in Coming Years. Good Coach. Good Spirit but Few Athletes.

That the authorities at Gettysburg College will use every means to avoid a repetition of the present unsuccessful foot ball season in coming years is the indication given in steps which have already been taken to secure better material next year. The fault for this year's failures is placed on the lack of material with which to develop a team, Coach Mauthe's services having been satisfactory in every way, and the student body sticking by the team but fine players are not here and the record to date tells the story.

S. F. Snyder, assistant to President Granville, has given out a statement outlining the preliminaries of the movement looking toward the betterment of conditions in which he says:

"It is unnecessary to say that the football season so far has not been as much of a success as we had hoped for and in a sense expected. But let the final record of the season be what it may, it will be of value to us in studying the whole situation, not to look for individuals to criticize, but rather to work together with the sincere purpose of overcoming our apparent handicaps and difficulties. Now let us look the facts squarely in the face.

"There is no question about the ability and earnestness of our coach. All are unanimous in their opinion that we have a splendid coach and we hope to secure him again for next year. Has the student body supported the team? We are glad to say, yes. If interest and enthusiasm on the part of the student body would win games we would have won every game on the schedule. Do we have the material on our field out of which to make a winning team for our present schedule? This we must answer in the negative. We do not have a scrub team strong enough, and it is the general opinion of coach, faculty and students that we do not have enough experienced men with real football instinct to turn out a winning team. Hence our real problem is to get a large number of men for next year who have real football ability plus all the experience and training afforded by first class high and preparatory schools. I need not say that the competition among colleges for this kind of football material is very keen. It is so keen that many institutions have resorted to very large inducements in the way of scholarships, etc.

"We must have a number of additional men with brains and brawn for our team next year. We are going to get them. To do this we need the co-operation of our alumni and this work must begin now. There are good athletes all over the country and if you know of some one who may be secured for Gettysburg please write at once to Coach J. L. Mauthe, Prof. Albert Billheimer, Prof. Frank Moser or Rev. S. F. Snyder. Our alumni and friends may rest assured that we will appreciate this assistance very much and that we will do all in our power to bring good athletes to Gettysburg College."

YORK SPRINGS

York Springs—A very pleasant birthday party was held at the home of Mrs. Mandilla Nitchman on Saturday evening in honor of her son, Calvin, it being his twenty-second birthday. He received many useful presents. The evening was spent in playing various games.

The store of Mrs. Lydia Eichelberger was robbed of over a hundred dollars worth of shoes and other merchandise on last Wednesday evening. Entrance was gained to the building by sawing out a hole in the weatherboarding. There seems to be no clue to the robbers.

Samuel Masemere, of Latimore township, has purchased the Pondtown Roller Mills for $1725 and will get possession of same on April 1st.

C. W. Starry, of Goodyear, raised about 3500 bushels of potatoes on his two farms the past season. W. S. Adams, of near Aspers, raised 3000 bushels of potatoes the past season.

One woman in Latimore township would not want to dispense with the rural telephone since an experience she had on Saturday evening. Mrs. E. T. Bream, discovered some person out at their barn about 9 o'clock and, calling up Gardner's store in York Springs, located her husband who hurried home and found nothing missing but evidences of some person having been in and around the barn. Probably the intruder was going to lift some chickens and was scared away.

On last Thursday night some one took Harry Lerew's driving horse from the stable in Latimore township, hitched it up in a buggy and drove about six miles beyond Dillsburg where the team was found the next day. When Mr. Lerew arose on Friday morning and went to the barn he found his horse, an animal 22 years old, gone as well as a set of harness and a buggy. He began telephoning around, for while the horse was not very valuable he did not want to see her abused. On Saturday word was received that the animal was cared for at Wormleysville about six miles above Dillsburg, and the owner went over and brought the team home.

ABBOTTSTOWN

Abbottstown—Oscar E. Border and Lloyd Mummert who spent the summer at Alliance, Ohio, are home to remain a while.

Mrs. Reuben Altland, Sr., has been very ill the past week but, we are pleased to state, she is convalescing.

S. A. Nagle purchased four pigs of G. B. M. Baker. He made a pen for them in a small box but forgot to line it, and one day last week they fell through a crack and wandered down the alley to George Winand's where his bantam rooster attacked them and was in the act of killing one when they were rescued.

Sunday evening while Clair Forry and sister were attending divine services in the Lutheran church their horse which they had tied in front of M. G. Baker's store got loose in some manner and ran down through the town upsetting the buggy, damaging it considerably. The horse was caught by John Hoffman before further damage was done.

JEFFERSON ON AGRICULTURE.

In a letter written in the year 1803 by President Jefferson and lately published in a biography is the following paragraph in reference to the importance of agriculture. Its sentiments are most timely now, 110 years later, and should be carefully considered by all and, in particular, by young men fitting themselves for a life career:

"The same artificial means that have been used to produce a competition in learning may be equally successful in restoring agriculture to its primary dignity in the eyes of men. It is a science of the very first order. It counts among its handmaids the most respectable sciences, such as chemistry, natural philosophy, mechanics, mathematics generally, natural history and botany. In every college and university a professorship of agriculture and the class of its students might be honored as the first. Young men choosing their academic education with this as the crown of all other sciences, fascinated with its solid charms, and at the same time when they are to choose an occupation, instead of crowding the other classes, would return to the farms of their fathers, their own, or those of others and replenish and invigorate a calling now languishing."

WORTH TRYING.

The school patrons in the vicinity of Rome, S. C., are carrying out a plan in connection with their local school that would seem to be well worth repeating. Some little time ago a butter scoring contest was held, and this aroused so much interest that the patrons of the school decided to erect a dairy barn and milk room on the school grounds so that the children might learn dairying as a regular part of their school work. Accommodations have been provided for five cows, and the instruction in connection with this new "dairying" department is in charge of an extension worker from Clemson Agricultural college. There are a good many localities over the country—thousands of them, in fact—where either centralized, co-operative or private creameries are conducted and where such a department as outlined might well be established, for in these sections tens of thousands of farmers are still milking cows, about which they merely guess in a very general way as to the total production of milk and cream of each cow per year. If such a dairy department were established and did nothing more than get farmers to weigh and test their milk it would be more than justified.

WILSON TAKES UP PEACE BLOCKADE

EXPECTS EUROPEAN AID

But Washington Administration Still Hopes That Dictator Will In Some Way Fall of His Own Accord.

Washington, Nov. 13.—With all the world informed of his position, and with many indications that he has enlisted the moral support of the important European powers, President Wilson apparently is waiting for some development in the Mexican situation which will give him an opening to carry out the course of action which he believes will result in the elimination of General Huerta.

It is still the hope of the administration that Huerta will, in some way, fall of his own accord. There is, however, no indication of any intention on Huerta's part to disappear from the situation without the application of force. If this condition continues President Wilson will be compelled to act.

There is reason for believing that a decision has been reached that the most effective way of forcing Huerta out will be the establishment of a blockade of all Mexican ports. It is suggested that there might be established "floating custom houses," consisting of American warships lying off Mexican ports and collecting duties from incoming ships, which would then be permitted to disembark cargoes, all "munitions of war" being sedulously excluded.

President Wilson's cabinet stands firmly behind him in his efforts to force the retirement of Huerta as a necessary step to the pacification of Mexico. For more than two hours the cabinet discussed every phase of the Mexican situation, and the consensus of opinion was that the government should not take a single backward step.

Though the secretaries were reticent afterward about expressing their views, it became known that they all favored steps which would convince Huerta that the United States was in earnest in its demand that he eliminate himself.

There is a hope on the part of the president and Secretary Bryan that a measure so radical as permitting exportations of arms for the rebels may not be required to solve the problem.

That President Wilson might possibly issue a statement in a day or two making a comprehensive explanation of the purposes of the United States was indicated.

It is reported that in this connection the president may announce the repudiation in advance of any acts of the new congress, which General Huerta has said would be convened Nov. 20.

The attitude of Europe is far more satisfactory to the administration than it has been since the beginning of the present phase of the Mexican situation last summer. The Guillois speech of Premier Asquith is distinctly gratifying.

England's attitude has finally been clearly defined, and its character is friendly. Heretofore there has been considerable dissatisfaction with the course followed by Great Britain, principally because it had so much to do with inspiring Huerta with courage to defy the United States.

The administration has given to Europe a full and complete explanation of all that has been done, and has, it is understood, outlined a future course, at least to the extent of saying that this government would take some definite action.

Informing the world of its motives and the more interested nations of its intentions in the premises is regarded as a preliminary to definite action. It can be stated that if the president can solve the Mexican problem to his own satisfaction as well as that of other nations interested without intervention with force he will assuredly do so.

He has not abandoned hope of doing this, although the indications are that the situation has gone so far that the president has no alternative other than to take affirmative action to effect Huerta's retirement. It may be said, further, that the president purposes to accomplish that end, cost what it may.

HUERTA READY TO FIGHT UNITED STATES

"Private dispatches received from an old magnate of Mexico City say that relations between the United States and Mexico may be broken off before long."

Similar dispatches from Mexico City say:

"Blinded by his boundless ambition and a sincere belief that he can 'lick the United States,' as some of his close advisers have been heard to express it, Provisional President Huerta, from all indications, has determined to brook no further 'interference' from Washington."

"Since President Wilson's latest note the dictator has refused to listen to advice that counsels sanity and caution. It is believed that he has fully made up his mind to risk a war. The situation in Mexico City is becoming more acute every day. An explosion with wholesale bloodshed, is the possibility of any hour."

"The government is marking time, so far as the diplomatic situation is concerned, awaiting the next move from Washington. John Lind, special envoy from the United States, is still in Mexico City, but he said that there had been no new developments in connection with his mission."

"As a starter in his plan to organize the national army to its full capacity of 150,000 men, President Huerta has appointed General Francisco Troncoso as chief of staff. All federal officers who participated in the successful defense of Chihuahua have been promoted. Generals Salazar and Caraveo, former rebel leaders, who recently came over to Huerta, have been made lieutenant generals."

FIND MAN DEAD IN WOODS

Camden, N. J., Nov. 13.—The body of a young man was found in the woods near Washington Park by Abraham Pierce and Philip Morley, of Gloucester, who were gunning for rabbits.

It is believed that the body had lain in the thicket, in a corner of the woods seldom visited, since early summer. A bullet hole in the man's skull showed how he met his death, and Coroner H. A. Wilson, of Woodbury, who was notified, is trying to determine whether it was a case of suicide or murder.

The man wore a dark suit, low black shoes, dark shirt with a pin stripe. A straw hat lay by his side.

Many houses were destroyed and numbers of natives killed. George M. Nicholson, a United States hospital steward, drowned while serving as a member of a rescue party.

DEMOCRATS HOPE FOR MONEY BILL

Six Committeemen Make Progress Toward Agreement.

CONFERENCE IS PUT OFF

Chairman Owen Promises to Make a Report to the Senate Within Ten Days.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The Democratic senatorial conference was suddenly halted on assurance from Senator Owen, chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, that a majority of the committee would be able to make a report to the senate on the currency bill within a week or ten days.

This probably means that there will be no caucus action on the currency question and that the bill will be carried direct to the floor of the senate.

As soon as the conference met Chairman Owen took the floor and made an explanation of what had been done up to date in committee and asked for further time. Senator Owen's speech was practically the only one made in the conference. After he had concluded his explanations there was a brief interchange of views and a motion was made to adjourn the conference subject to the call of the chairman, which was unanimously carried.

Six Democratic members of the finance committee were in session perfecting a bill. It is likely that a final effort will be made to reach some sort of an agreement by which a report can be made to the senate next week. Some of the Republican members of the committee have intimated that they might join in a report, with the privilege of reservations for filing individual statements of views. One of these is Senator Crawford.

It will be observed that notwithstanding President Wilson's insistence on at least nine regional banks, the bill agreed on tentatively provided for eight regional banks, which is supposed to be the last word of the president on this feature of the bill.

Senator Hitchcock is said to have been talking in a conciliatory way to some of his Democratic leaders. He may concur in a report, reserving the right to file exceptions in the senate.

At the Democratic conference of the banking committee a slight change was made in the plan of capitalization for the reserve associations. It was voted to make it 6 per cent of capital and surplus of the banks included, which would make a total capitalization of $10,000,000.

Democratic members were saying that when the bill is reported to the senate it would be amended to eliminate that feature of the house bill which authorizes national banks to do a savings banks business.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE BURNS

Proctor, Vt., Nov. 13.—A temporary shortage in the food supply of this village resulted from the destruction by fire of the large building housing the co-operative store, conducted by the Vermont Marble company. The loss is $150,000.

The 2700 inhabitants, mostly marble workers and their families, have depended chiefly on the "company store" for groceries and provisions. Arrangements were made for bringing in food on a special train from Rutland.

These regulations apply to letters of this character received only during the month of December of each year.

Life Need Not Be Narrow.

Our life is just as narrow as we let it be. If we live in a lonely country place miles from a railway, we can study the plants and animals about us until we come to understand something of the secrets of the universe. If our lot is in a great city, we have opportunities of studying human nature—seeing with our own eyes the development of characters as strange as ever novelist put into his books. Multitudes of men walked the same streets with Dickens without seeing a hundredth part of what he saw. It is the power to see, and not the object to be seen, that we lack, and this power may be, to a certain extent, cultivated by practice.—Exchange.

What's the Answer?

What gives us our sense of longing for the garden road, demurely useful little neighbor that he has proved himself, while his second cousin, the frog, who seems to do nothing but play the dandy and the braggart, is uniformly treated as a good fellow? If the toad gulped and croaked all night long, and made his home in slimy pools instead of in the melon patch, would they reverse their present order in our esteem?—Atlantic.

Excellent Precepts.

If you would relish your food, labor for it; if you would enjoy the rainfall, pay for it before you wear it; if you would sleep soundly, take a clear conscience to bed with you.

The Ghost Locomotive

By THOMAS R. DEAN

The address of a president of a society for the advancement of science containing a statement that was taken to reflect favorably on the investigations of societies for psychical research has revived the interest in ghost stories. Now that scientists are beginning to look with more favor, or at least with less indifference, upon ghosts these stories will be more likely to begin again to come from the graveyard where scientific contempt has for many years buried them. Here is one that has recently been resurrected.

Nearly a quarter of a century ago, away out on the Canadian Pacific railroad, Bill Burton, while driving his engine on a misty night over a road that had been washed by heavy rains for four days, came suddenly upon a landslide. Bill reversed the lever and jumped, striking his head on a bowlder, and was instantly killed. The locomotive stopped within a few feet of the slide, then began to back. There was nothing behind it but a caboose, in which were two trainmen playing seven up. They noticed the shock, but, being intent on the game, paid no attention to it and didn't know a few minutes after it occurred that they were moving backward at breakneck speed.

The first thing they knew they didn't know anything, for they doubled up on a passenger train standing on the track and were both killed.

One who knew Burton intimately remarked at the time of his death that it was perhaps best he had been killed. He was a very sensitive man, and the knowledge that he had saved his own life by jumping at the expense of such a disaster as resulted from his leaving his engine reversed with steam on would have driven him to suicide. Another friend, also an engineer, added, "Yes, and it will trouble Bill dead just as much as it would have troubled him living."

One night, just such a night as the one on which this catastrophe took place, Joe Bigley, an engineer, was approaching the place of the landslide, only he was going in the opposite direction, when suddenly he saw a locomotive headlight, full glare, right in front of him. With a gasp for breath he threw back the lever. As he did so he judged that the engineer of the other engine also reversed, for simultaneously both came to a stop and then began to move backward.

Bigley, seeing that the danger was passed, stopped his engine and then moved ahead again. The light before him receded. He let it get far enough to avoid danger, then put on his regular speed. He was expecting every moment to get a signal that the backing engine was about to switch off, but no such signal came. Bigley whistled, but got no reply. Thinking to get nearer the other locomotive, he put on speed, but just as much speed was put on the other engine, and although Bigley opened her up as wide as he could the retreating engine kept her distance.

All of a sudden the engineer heard a terrific crash come from where the other engine was, and the light went out. He had no more doubt that the locomotive had smashed into something than that he was holding a throttle. He kept on to give assistance, slowing down when approaching the place where the smashup had occurred, but he went on and on and didn't come to any wreck.

In fact, there wasn't any wreck that could be found. The road was perfectly free, and Bigley pulled on to the terminal. When he got there he collapsed. When asked if he had run anybody down or anything like that he couldn't answer for a time, and when he righted himself he would not say anything about his experience, but went to the superintendent and told him that nothing could induce him to run over that part of the road again. The superintendent got the story out of him and knew what it all meant, but he didn't let on. If he had given out that Bill Burton's ghost was cavorting around the place where he had been killed he wouldn't have been able to get an engineer to take trains past it for love or money.

"All right, Bigley," he said. "I'll give you a different run entirely. But I don't want you to say anything about this business. I think your nerves have been overstrained, and that has caused the apparition. But the men on the road are easily influenced by a superstitious story, and it wouldn't be well to have your illusions get out."

As this occurrence was kept pretty close, the date was not noticed, but just a year from that time another engineer had the same experience. Then it leaked out, or, rather, he told all about it, and somebody suggested that perhaps Bill Burton's ghost was up and doing on the anniversary of his death. They looked up the date and found that the accident and the two occasions on which the backing light was seen all occurred on the 23d of November, the day Burton was killed.

After that the only trouble the management had to get engineers to take a train past the place was on the night of the anniversary. One of the men, Tom Logan, who had been connected with the road for many years and had nerves tough as an elephant's hide, used to do the job. The president and superintendent went on the locomotive on one anniversary, and they must have scared Burton away, for nothing was seen of the headlight nor has anything been seen of it since.

Heed The Warning

Many Gettysburg People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are weak they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Weak kidneys usually expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brickdust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys often cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Gettysburg people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills.

Samuel Beck, farmer, Orrtanna, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for a long time and they have proven a wonderful cure for kidney trouble. I had pains in my sides and my head ached. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended, I got a box and it didn't take them long to cure me. I am in a position to recommend this remedy strongly."

COUPLE ROBBED

As They Were to Make Payment on their Home.

The savings of two years of married life, the fruits of many privations and denials, which were to be used in paying for a little home, were taken away early yesterday morning says a Los Angeles exchange, by the ruthless hand of a thief, according to the report at the police headquarters. The victims were R. R. Hankins and his wife of 425 East Fourth street. The savings amounted to $1,500, mostly in gold. The couple attribute their loss to the woman's fear of banks.

The money was in a little box hidden in a bookcase. Often the husband and cautioned his wife to place the money in a bank, but she feared a failure. No one knew the money was there, she reasoned, not even her husband's parents, with whom they lived, and it was far safer. And so each week she added a few pieces of gold to the hoard and the vision of the little home grew brighter.

Before they were married she was Maud Miller and Hankins was a car inspector on the Southern Pacific. He earned about $1,200 a year. When the girl consented to marry him, according to the story told by his parents, she made the condition that Hankins would give her a home of her own in two years, and that on the day of the wedding he should show a deed to the lot whereon the home was to stand.

So Hankins, who is thirty years old, went to work and scrimped and saved and at last bought a lot. Then Maud Miller came out from Minnesota and they were married. They rented two little rooms in the same house with the husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hankins, and began to save.

Each week Hankins turned over to his bride his pay, and after taking out only what was absolutely necessary to provide for them, she would put the rest in a little japanned box which she hid.

From time to time the couple took out the box and counted the gold pieces. When they had more than $1,000 they started to build on their lot on East Third street. The house was to cost about $1,000 and they had saved enough to furnish it.

Tuesday night they counted the money again, and the husband says he begged the wife once more to place the money in the bank. It meant much to them, for they had undergone many denials and privations to save it. But she would not agree, still fearing banks.

The little bookcase sits near a window. Each morning when the couple awoke Hankins looked at the bookcase to see that everything was safe. Yesterday morning he discovered that the window was open, the books were lying on the floor and the money gone.

The matter was reported at once to the police, but Detectives Beaumont and King, who were assigned to the case, have yet no clue to work upon. A reward of $300 was authorized last night by Hankins.

The building on the little home is stopped, and unless the money is recovered the house will be turned over to the builders.

Both Hankins and his wife declared that they had learned a dear lesson.

They will now start to save again, but each week their savings will be recorded in a little bank book. The Savings Department of the First National Bank of Gettysburg offers you the little bank book, 3½ per cent. compound interest, the protection of $250,000 capital and surplus, and over fifty years of successful banking experience. FUR BUTTONS ARE A NOVEL TOUCH ON A SMART SUIT

"Kitten's ear" is the name given one of the new pile fabrics, and well it deserves the name, as it is literally as soft and silky as a kitten's ear. The suppleness and velvety texture of many of these fabrics is really to be marveled at. A material of this sort needs very little decoration aside from a touch of fur or a bit of color for contrast.

In the illustration 7769-7705 is fashioned of "kitten's ear" cloth in one of the new rich shades of red and trimmed with black fox. An odd touch is given the suit by the large fur buttons which close it down the front. The coat has a long waisted effect and a fitted peplum. A four pored skirt slightly draped accompanies the blouse.

To make in size 36 (7769) requires 2¼ yards of 42 inch material. 7705 may be made in size 24 with 2¼ yards of 42 inch material.

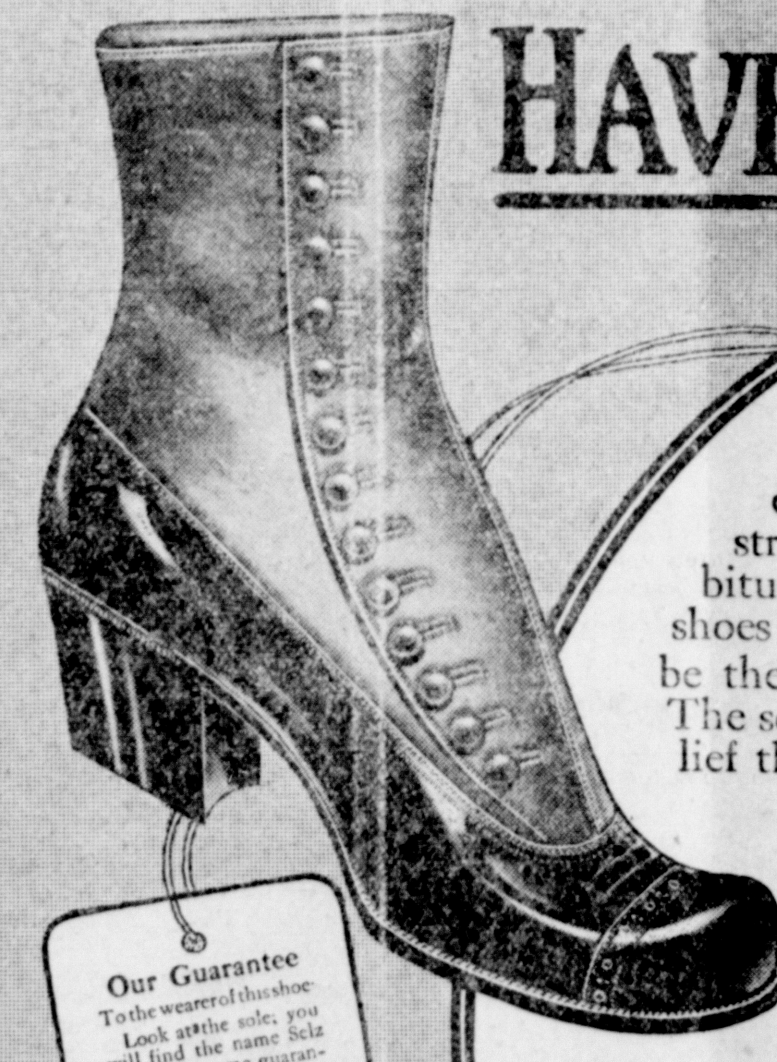

The deep peplum is a feature of many of the afternoon gowns of silk. It adds often in bringing out the broad hip lines, now so fashionable. Blue crepe charmeuse was used for 7650. The vest is of figured silk in soft harmonious shades, and the broad sash is of satin. Lace effectively trims sleeves and collar.

This design may be copied in size 36 with 5 yards of 56 inch material. No. 7769—sizes 32 to 44. No. 7705—sizes 22 to 30. No. 7650—sizes 34 to 42. Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

REMINGTON UMC

Steel Lined SHOT SHELLS

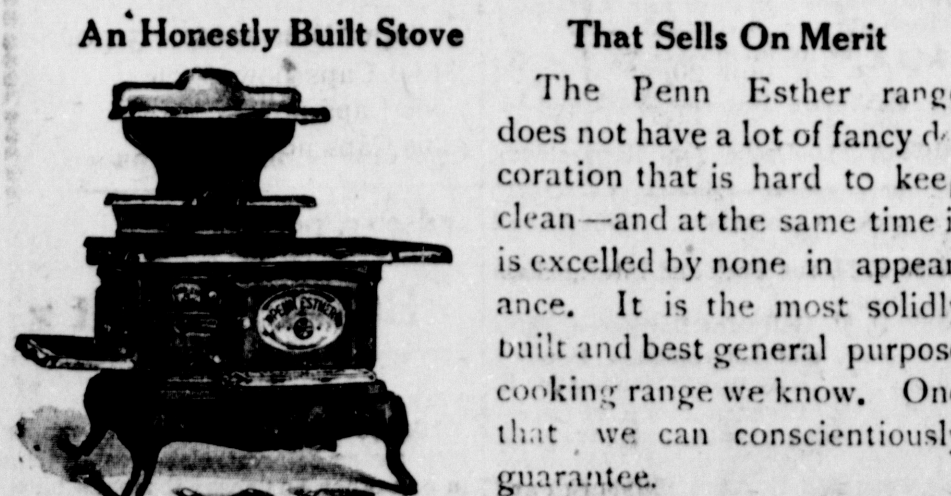

Cut down your lead—Get your bird with the center of the lead

In the making of shotshells, the greatest forward step since the invention of smokeless powder is the steel lining to grip the powder and concentrate all the drive of the explosion back of the shot.

It's a Remington special invention—that steel lining. You find it in Remington-UMC Arrow and Nitro Club. These steel lined shells get their shot to the target quicker than any other shells known to the shooting fraternity. They cut down the guess-work about lead and angles. They put the center of the lead right on your bird.

The steel lining is moisture-proof—no dampness can get through. No powder—no powder can get out. Waste-proof—no energy is lost. Shoot Remington-UMC Arrow and Nitro Club Steel Lined Eastern Factory Loaded Shell or Speed Plus Pattern in any make of shotgun. Your dealer carries them—or, if he doesn't, there's a more alert dealer in this section who is worth your finding.

TO NAME PINDELL, SAYS BRYAN

Nomination to Be Made Despite Alleged Lewis Letter.

"GROSSLY MISREPRESENTED"

Secretary of State Declares Tender of Ambassadorship to Russia Was Unsolicited.

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson will send to the senate for confirmation the nomination of Henry M. Pindell, of Peoria, Ill., to be ambassador to Russia, according to a statement issued by Secretary of State Bryan.

This prospective nomination has attracted widespread attention because of the publication of an alleged letter from Senator James Hamilton Lewis to Pindell, in which Lewis is quoted as saying that Pindell need take the place for only a year, that he would not be called upon to transact any important business, such as the making of treaties, and that he could spend practically all his time traveling through Europe.

Lewis disclaimed the letter to the extent of declaring that he could find no such communication in the files of his correspondence with Pindell. "The ambassadorship to Russia is vacant," said Secretary Bryan's statement, "and the president has for some time been desirous of filling it by an appointment which would be entirely worthy of the great dignity and importance of the post."

"Knowing Mr. Pindell personally, his character, his ability and his exceptional fitness for the duties of such a place, he offered him the appointment. Mr. Pindell did not seek the appointment. It was tendered to him without any solicitation on his part, without knowledge or participation on his part that it would be offered to him."

"In response to the offer he simply stated that he would be glad to serve the administration in any way in which the president thought he could serve it successfully, but that he did not feel that he could conscientiously obligate himself to serve the full ordinary term of a foreign diplomat, because he did not feel that he could leave his business so long. The president asked him to accept it for as long a time as he could stay, and he consented."

"This is a full statement of the matter, which has been grossly misrepresented. The president will not allow malicious misrepresentation to interfere with his right to nominate to the senate the best qualified man within his choice for conspicuous and responsible positions."

Secretary Bryan declined to state the exact term for which Pindell has accepted the ambassadorship, saying that he did not believe that this point had been definitely settled.

"Mr. Pindell will remain abroad as long as he can without endangering his business interests," said Bryan. "I now consider the incident is closed."

Mr. Pindell had an hour's talk with the president. Pindell was accompanied to the White House by Secretary Bryan, who, according to the alleged Lewis letter, stipulated that Pindell could not have the ambassadorship unless he agreed to the arrangement mentioned.

Pindell is said to have submitted to the president all the correspondence he has had with Senator Lewis and others pertaining to the "social" ambassadorship to Russia.

No information could be obtained as to whether such a letter as that attributed to Lewis was contained in this correspondence, but the inference from the cautious statements made after Pindell's call at the White House was that he had no record of any such communication.

CATTLE OWNERS TO BE REIMBURSED

State to Pay For Condemed Animals.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 13.—Auditor General A. W. Powell was advised by Attorney General John C. Bell that he could pay appropriations of $500,000 for the reimbursement of owners of cattle which were taken because of disease, and for the suppression of cattle diseases; $50,000 for the purchase of forestry reserve lands; $100,000 for encouragement of agricultural exhibitions; $830,000 for reimbursement of counties for expenditures for uniform primaries and $3000 for the expenses of the commission to investigate methods of recording deeds and making titles, all in the general appropriation bill.

The auditor general had questioned whether these items were "ordinary expenses of the state government and therefore within the power of the legislature to provide for in the general appropriation bill. The attorney general in an exhaustive opinion holds that they are proper expenditures in the ordinary course of government."

DIDN'T SEE BRIDE'S FACE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 13.—Declaring that he had not seen the face of his bride until after the ceremony had been performed, Dr. Francis W. Hartley admitted that he was married on Wednesday evening at the Franklin Square Baptist church to Mrs. Marian A. Arnett, of Philadelphia.

"When Mrs. Arnett arrived in this city she immediately went to the church," said Dr. Hartley. "She was wearing a thin black veil, and to prevent me from seeing her face she held it sideways from me until the pastor of the church had performed the ceremony and pronounced us man and wife."

Mrs. Hartley admitted that such was the case and says that she is now happy.

EARTHQUAKE KILLS 150

Many Die in Peru When Sugar Plants Are Razed.

Lima, Peru, Nov. 13.—More than 8000 persons are homeless and at least 150 are dead as the result of an earthquake that occurred last Friday in the province of Abancay.

Big sugar plants were razed by the shocks and the employees were crushed to death. The tremors wrecked all telegraph wires, and the news of the disaster had to be brought to Lima by couriers. The government has ordered food and nurses to the city of Abancay.

19 SAVED FROM GAS BY CHILD'S CRIES

Infant Wakes Father Who Arouses Four Families.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 13.—The cries of an infant in the home of George Hinkley, at Kingston, saved nineteen persons in four families from asphyxiation by gas, which escaped from a broken main in the street.

The nineteen persons were affected, but only Miss Mary Mason and Miss Joan Burnett are in a serious condition.

The families of George Hinkley, William Mason, David Sites and William Elkes live in a four-house block. While the families slept the main broke and gas forced its way into the homes.

The infant in the Hinkley family cried loudly and awakened the father. He found the house filled with gas. He tried to arouse the other neighbors, but found them under the influence of the gas.

Two doctors quickly came to the homes and after the doors and windows were opened all responded to treatment except Miss Mason and Miss Burnett, who still are in a serious condition.

CHURCH WOMEN ASK VOTE

New York, Nov. 13.—Whether women shall have a voice and a vote in church government or continue to be governed in matters spiritual by man was a question that came before the Protestant Episcopal church of the diocese of New York at the opening session of its annual convention here.

Advocates of woman suffrage in the church succeeded in introducing a resolution to give women equal rights with man in determining church policy.

An amendment to the state law would have to be passed before women could be given the proposed franchise, in the opinion of those framing the resolution.

Another resolution which elicited wide comment was as follows: "Resolved, That no clergyman who is not an American citizen shall be permitted to accept a rectorship in the state of New York."

Possess Had Roosevelt Button. West Orange, N. J., Nov. 13.—A celluloid button, on which was printed "Vote for Theodore Roosevelt for Governor," was found inside an opossum which was killed near here by Henry Clark.

Farmer Gored by Mad Bull. Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 13.—Lev Eason, of Ingleside, fifty years old, was perhaps fatally gored by a mad bull both his lungs were penetrated.

Homemade Hair Tonic.
An old fashioned hair tonic, that is really helpful in starting new growth and preventing falling hair, is made from 45 cents' worth of castor oil, 5 cents' worth of pure grain alcohol and 5 cents' worth of bergamot. Shake all well together until thoroughly mixed, and apply by parting the hair in strands, and rubbing the tonic right into the scalp with the tips of the fingers. Only a very little of the tonic is applied and efforts should be made to get it right on the scalp, not the hair, rubbing thoroughly. It is of course very greasy, although thinned by the alcohol, and for a few days afterward the hair is likely to look rather more "slick" than modern fashion approves, but a little rubbing with bay rum removes this oiliness.

Wherein He Was Wrong.
"Gaddis might have been a success in life but for one thing." "And what is that?" "A mistaken impression; he has held for many years that his presence adds dignity to a street corner."—Birmingham Herald.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

Jack Johnson's Title Not Recognized Abroad.

GARRY HERRMANN VS. FULTZ

Courtney Allows Crew Men to Play on Cornell Gridiron—Army and Navy to Play Three Game Baseball Series. To Change Water Polo Dates.

That the sentiment of French sportsmen is antagonistic to Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight pugilist, developed at the regular session of the New York state boxing commission, at which a communication was read from Victor Breyer, who is prominently identified with the French Federation of Boxing Clubs in Paris.

Breyer stated it was generally assumed in the French capital that the heavyweight situation included only Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette and that upon either of these two American negroes the mantle of champion should be placed.

Breyer, who is one of the many responsible for this classification, is well known in America, and his summary of the heavyweight situation was incorporated in a letter on behalf of the French Federation of Boxing Clubs in an endeavor to have an even scale of weights in all classes, such as obtains in England, France, Belgium and Switzerland, and by its adoption in America make it really international.

The scale proposed is as follows: Flyweight, 112 pounds; bantam, 118 pounds; feather, 126 pounds; light, 135 pounds; welter, 147 pounds; middle, 160 pounds; light-heavy, 175 pounds; heavyweight, all over 175 pounds.

The champions recognized abroad, according to Breyer, are Johnny Cullen, in the bantamweight division; Johnny Kilbane, featherweight; Willie Ritchie, lightweight; Frank Klaus, middleweight; Sam Langford, light-heavyweight, and either Langford or Joe Jeannette, heavyweight, with the welterweight class in abeyance.

The national baseball commission, in dealing with the Players' fraternity in relation to a revised contract for players in the major leagues, will not have any dealings with the organization's president, David Fultz. The commission is willing to arbitrate with a committee of players, but with no one not active in baseball. August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, stated emphatically in Cincinnati that he would have nothing to do with Mr. Fultz, and President Lynch of the National league also took the same position. So if the fraternity tries to conduct its business through its president, Mr. Fultz, there is likely to be more or less controversy and probably ultimate failure of the Players' plans.

That there is no impending break in Cornell athletics over crew men playing.

The Newspaper Man.

"To be successful as a newspaper man means self-restraint greater than in any other business; it means harder work, greater sacrifice, more irregular hours, less recognition, and for all of this there comes less remuneration."—Harry L. Bayler.
